#Personally about ASSC

I think the conversation about ASSC might be better served if it can move away from conventionally perceived accounting operations as “leisurely affair” and shift to its real constant hunger for improvement.

Our everyday work is based on the idea that it should be enjoyed and it should rise above the target.

We are passionate about celebrating successes, learning on daily challenges. Each morning we combine our various skills and become team players, because if there is a better way to do something, we are the one to find it.

For me, what is precious is that we are a great team, effectuating the accounting transformation concept and we live up to our ambitions.
